TRAVEL GUIDE

Overview

The Czech Republic, a Central European country and part of the Schengen Area, offers a captivating blend of history, culture, and natural beauty. Travelers can explore magnificent castles, charming medieval towns, and vibrant cities, making it ideal for those seeking rich cultural experiences and picturesque landscapes.

Beyond the iconic capital of Prague, the country diversifies into distinct regions. Bohemia in the west boasts historic spa towns and dramatic rock formations, while Moravia to the east is known for its rolling vineyards, folk traditions, and cities like Brno and Olomouc. Visitors can also discover UNESCO World Heritage sites such as Historic Centre of Český Krumlov and Jewish Quarter in Třebíč.

Money & payments

The local currency is the Czech koruna. While card payments are common in most establishments, carrying some cash is advisable for smaller purchases, especially in rural areas, local markets, or for some public transport tickets. ATMs are widely available in towns and cities.

Tipping

Tipping is customary in the Czech Republic and is a way to show appreciation for good service.

In restaurants, a tip of 5-10% is common. When paying by card, specify the total amount (including tip) to the server before they process payment. Otherwise, leave cash on the table. For bars and cafes, round up the bill or leave a small amount of cash.

For taxi drivers, round up the fare to the nearest convenient amount. Hotel staff, such as housekeepers and porters, appreciate small cash tips. Tour guides can be tipped 100-200 CZK per person for a good half-day tour.

Language

The official language of Česko is Czech. In major cities and tourist areas like Prague, Brno, and Olomouc, English is widely spoken, particularly among younger people and in the service industry. Outside these areas, especially in smaller towns and rural regions, English proficiency may be limited. Learning a few basic Czech phrases will be appreciated and useful.

Staying connected

Getting a local SIM or eSIM is straightforward. Major providers like O2, Vodafone, and T-Mobile have stores in airports, train stations, and shopping centers, and no ID registration is required for prepaid SIMs. Free Wi-Fi is widely available in cafés, hotels, and public spaces.

Safety & emergencies

The Czech Republic is generally a safe country for travelers, with violent crime being rare. The primary concern for tourists is petty theft, particularly pickpocketing. This is most common in crowded areas, especially around major attractions, public transport hubs, and busy squares in cities like Prague.

Always be vigilant and keep your valuables secure, especially in crowded tourist zones. Be cautious of unsolicited offers or distractions, which can be tactics used by pickpockets.

Emergency numbers

GENERAL EMERGENCY	POLICE	AMBULANCE	FIRE BRIGADE
112	158	155	150

Health

Tap water in the Czech Republic is safe to drink.

Pharmacies (lékárna) are widely available in towns and cities, typically marked with a green cross. They usually operate during standard business hours. For after-hours needs, a rotating roster of emergency pharmacies provides 24/7 service; check local listings for the nearest option.

For most travelers, no specific vaccinations are required beyond routine immunizations. If you plan extended stays in rural or forested areas, particularly from spring to autumn, consider vaccination against tick-borne encephalitis (TBE).

Visas & entry

The Czech Republic is part of the Schengen Area. Citizens of EU, EEA, and Switzerland can enter and reside freely. Many non-EU nationalities, including those from the US, Canada, UK, Australia, and New Zealand, can enter visa-free for short stays of up to 90 days within any 180-day period. Other travelers typically need a Schengen visa.

Visa and entry requirements change frequently. Verify current requirements with the official immigration authority or your country's embassy before travel. Czech MFA – information for foreigners

Etiquette

Czech people are generally polite and reserved. A simple "Dobrý den" (good day) or "Děkuji" (thank you) is always appreciated.

When visiting churches or religious sites, dress modestly by covering your shoulders and knees. Asking permission before photographing individuals is respectful. Bargaining is not common in shops or restaurants; prices are usually fixed. It may occur at flea markets.

Holidays & opening hours

Public holidays in the Czech Republic typically mean banks and many shops are closed, and public transport may run on a reduced schedule. Plan ahead for these days.

Getting around

- By train: The national rail network, operated by České dráhy (ČD), is reliable and connects major cities like Prague, Brno, and Ostrava. For better prices, book tickets in advance online, especially on popular routes. Other operators like RegioJet and Leo Express also serve select routes.
- By bus: An extensive network of inter-city buses, including operators like FlixBus and RegioJet, serves destinations across the country. Buses often reach smaller towns not on the rail network and can be a cheaper alternative to trains.
- By car: A motorway vignette is required for using motorways and expressways. A 10-day vignette costs approximately 300 CZK (~12 EUR) and can be purchased online at edalnice.cz or at petrol stations. Roads are generally well-maintained.
- Public transport (city): Major cities like Prague, Brno, and Plzeň have efficient public transport systems (trams, buses, metro in Prague). Tickets can often be purchased directly on board using contactless bank cards or via mobile apps.

Driving

Driving in the Czech Republic is generally straightforward, but be aware of key local regulations.

Key Driving Rules

- Speed limits:
  - Built-up areas: 50 km/h
  - Rural roads: 90 km/h
  - Motorways: 130 km/h (some sections 110 km/h)
- Alcohol: A strict zero-tolerance policy (0.00% BAC) applies to all drivers.
- Headlights: Dipped headlights or daytime running lights are mandatory year-round, at all times.
- Mandatory equipment: Carry a reflective vest (for all occupants if outside the car on the road), a first-aid kit, and a warning triangle. Winter tyres are mandatory from November 1 to March 31 if winter conditions are present or signposted.

Motorway Vignettes and Tolls Motorways require an electronic vignette (e-vignette).

- Purchase online at edalnice.cz, or at post offices and petrol stations.
- A 10-day vignette costs approximately 300 CZK (~12 EUR).
- Some cities, like Prague, have low-emission zones (LEZs). While enforcement for tourist vehicles may vary, it's advisable to check local regulations before driving into city centers.

Parking

- Paid-parking zones are common in city centers, though rules vary by city (Prague and Brno use different systems) — check local signage or a parking app on arrival.
- Payment is typically via mobile apps or parking meters.
- Blue zones are usually reserved for residents.
- Underground parking garages are widely available in city centers.

Fuel

- Fuel stations are mostly self-service and accept card payments.
- Petrol is labelled "Natural 95" or "Natural 98". Diesel is "Nafta".

Electric Vehicles

- The EV charging network is expanding, particularly in urban areas and along main transport corridors.
- Major providers include ČEZ, E.ON, and PRE. Using their specific apps or universal charging apps like PlugShare is recommended.
- Costs for charging vary by provider and power output.

Food & drink

Czech cuisine is hearty, emphasizing meat, potatoes, and rich sauces. Lunch is often the most substantial meal of the day, with many locals eating at work canteens or traditional pubs (hospody). Dinner tends to be lighter, and dining out at a pub for a traditional meal is a common social activity. Staples like dumplings (knedlíky) accompany many dishes.

Notable dishes to try include svíčková (marinated beef sirloin in a cream sauce), guláš (goulash, often served with dumplings), and vepřo-knedlo-zelo (roast pork with dumplings and sauerkraut). For a quick bite, look for smažený sýr (fried cheese) or chlebíčky (open-faced sandwiches). While popular with tourists, trdelník (a sweet pastry) is actually of Slovak origin and not a traditional Czech dish.

The Czech Republic is famous for its beer (pivo), which is often cheaper than bottled water in restaurants. Popular brands include Pilsner Urquell and Budweiser Budvar. Moravian wines are also increasingly recognized, particularly white varieties. Other local drinks include Becherovka (a herbal liqueur), Slivovice (plum brandy), and Kofola, a distinct local cola.

Where to explore

The Czech Republic's must-see towns span its two historic regions, Bohemia and Moravia. Start with the capital Prague, then head west to the spa town of Karlovy Vary and the brewing city of Plzeň. South Bohemia is home to the fairy-tale town of Cesky Krumlov — its UNESCO-listed old town is centred on Historic Centre of Český Krumlov — and the regional hub České Budějovice. East of Prague, the UNESCO towns of Kutná Hora, famed for its Gothic ossuary, and Telč, with its arcaded Renaissance square, make easy day trips, while Hradec Králové and Liberec anchor the east and north.

In Moravia, explore Brno, a dynamic city known for its modernist architecture, and the wine town of Mikulov, close to chateaux like Lednice Château (Lednice Chateau). Further north, Olomouc boasts a magnificent Baroque column, while Ostrava offers a taste of the country's industrial heritage.
