Overview

Brno offers a distinct and more relaxed Czech experience than Prague. As a university city, it has a youthful energy, reflected in its lively café and bar culture. The city combines centuries of history with notable modern architecture, including striking Art Nouveau and functionalist buildings.

Travelers seeking an authentic local feel and fewer crowds will find Brno appealing. It is an ideal starting point for exploring the South Moravian region. Brno suits those who enjoy a mix of historical sites, vibrant culture, and a welcoming local atmosphere.

When to visit

Brno is best visited in spring and autumn, when temperatures are mild and pleasant. Summers are generally warm to hot, while winters are cold and often bring snow, creating a festive atmosphere around Christmas. Consider timing your visit for `Ignis Brunensis`, an international fireworks competition that runs from late May into early July, offering spectacular displays over the city.

What to experience

Brno offers several distinctive local experiences, from quirky urban rituals to major international events.

- Attend the Ignis Brunensis international fireworks competition, held annually from late May into early July.
- Watch the Brno Astronomical Clock release its marble at 11 AM daily.
- Find a unique perspective under the Statue of Margrave Jošt statue by looking up into the horse's mouth.
- Ride the historic pater noster elevator inside the functionalist Main Post Office.

Day trips

Brno is an excellent base for exploring the South Moravian region and beyond. Consider these popular day trips:

- Moravian Karst and Macocha Abyss: Journey north (approx. 45-60 minutes by train or bus to Ⓐ Blansko) to explore a vast cave system, including the Punkevní Caves with an underground boat ride, and the dramatic Macocha Abyss.
- Lednice-Valtice Cultural Landscape: Head south (approx. 1 hour by car or bus) to this UNESCO World Heritage site, featuring two grand chateaux, extensive gardens, and vineyards.
- Ⓑ Olomouc: Take a train north (approx. 1.5 hours) to this historic city, home to another UNESCO site, the Holy Trinity Column, and beautiful Baroque architecture.
- Ⓒ Mikulov: Travel south (approx. 45-60 minutes by bus or car) to this picturesque wine town, dominated by a castle and surrounded by the Pálava Hills.
- Ⓓ Slavkov u Brna (Austerlitz): A short train or bus ride (approx. 30-40 minutes) brings you to the site of the famous 1805 Battle of Austerlitz, with a memorial and museum.

Where to explore

Brno sits at the heart of South Moravia's wine country, close to several worthwhile small towns.

Southeast of the city, Mikulov is a picturesque wine town below a hilltop castle. Slavkov u Brna marks the site of Napoleon's decisive 1805 battle, Austerlitz. To the north, Blansko is the gateway to the Moravian Karst cave system.

Getting there

- By air: Brno–Tuřany (BRQ) has limited seasonal and charter flights. Most international travelers arrive via Vienna International Airport (VIE) or Prague's Václav Havel Airport (PRG). Travel from Vienna Airport to Brno takes approximately 2 to 2.5 hours by direct train or bus.
- By train: Brno is a key rail hub with direct connections from cities like Prague, Vienna, and Bratislava.
- By bus: Long-distance coaches offer frequent service with connections to Prague, Vienna, Bratislava, and Budapest.

Getting around

- Public transit: Brno has an extensive network of trams and buses. You can purchase tickets directly on board using a contactless bank card or phone. Tickets are also available from machines at stops or via the official DPMB mobile app. Learn more at Brno Public Transport (DPMB).
- Taxi / ride-hailing: Ride-hailing services like Uber and Bolt operate in Brno. Taxis are also widely available.
- On foot / cycling: The city center is compact and very walkable. Cycling is a practical way to explore, with a growing number of designated paths.

Getting around on foot & by bike

WALKABILITY

Moderate

Brno's historic center is quite walkable with pedestrian zones, but the city's layout becomes more spread out and traffic can be a challenge in outer areas. Some hilly sections exist.

CYCLING INFRASTRUCTURE

Moderate

Brno has a growing network of cycle paths, particularly in newer areas and along rivers, but coverage can be inconsistent. Some parts of the city are hilly, and bike-sharing is available.

Food & drink

Brno's food scene offers a blend of traditional Moravian and Czech cuisine alongside modern international influences. Expect hearty dishes like goulash, schnitzel, and various types of dumplings (knedlíky). The region is also known for its local wines, often found in smaller cellars or restaurants.

For authentic Czech cooking, visit Lokál U Caipla Lokál U Caipla. For a modern, niche option, Pizzapunk Pizzapunk offers excellent vegan pizzas. Beyond specific restaurants, you'll find a wide array of dining options clustered around Freedom Square Freedom Square and Zelný Market Zelný Market, which also hosts a daily outdoor market with fresh produce and local treats. Many cafes and bars offer lighter fare and local pastries.

What to eat & drink

History

Brno's history stretches back to the 11th century, with the earliest settlements forming beneath Petrov Hill, where the impressive Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul now stands. Its strategic location made it a significant center for trade and defense. The city's medieval character is still visible today, particularly around the Zelný Market and the Labyrinth under Vegetable Market, a network of tunnels and cellars beneath the historic market square.

Over centuries, Spilberk Castle evolved from a royal castle into a formidable fortress and later a notorious prison. The city's civic life centered on the Old Town Hall, Brno, the oldest building in Brno. In more recent times, Brno became a hub for industry and modern architecture, exemplified by landmarks such as the Villa of Dušan Jurkovič, an Art Nouveau villa completed in 1906 by architect Dušan Jurkovič, and the functionalist Tugendhat Villa from the late 1920s, a UNESCO World Heritage site. The Brno Ossuary beneath the Church of St. James serves as a stark reminder of the city's past.

Brno's Villa Quarter

2h 33min · 7.5 km · 15 stops

1. Jurkovičova vila
2. Nový dům Colony
3. Patočkova vila
4. Krohova vila
5. Dvořák Villa
6. Fuchsova vila
7. Poláškova vila
8. Vila Kumpošt
9. Dům pro dva mládence
10. Villa Neumark
11. Haas Villa
12. Münzova vila
13. Vila Wittal
14. Vila Ernsta Löw-Beera
15. Vila Stiassni

On the wooded slopes west of the centre — Pisárky and the Masaryk Quarter — Brno's interwar elite built the densest concentration of modernist villas in the country. This walk threads fifteen of them: the two you can go inside (Dušan Jurkovič's Art-Nouveau house and Ernst Wiesner's purist Vila Stiassni, both now museums), the 1928 Nový dům colony that was Brno's answer to Stuttgart's Weissenhof, the only Czech house in MoMA's 1932 "International Style" show, and a string of homes by Wiesner, Bohuslav Fuchs, Jiří Kroha and Jindřich Kumpošt for the textile magnates who once lived here. Roughly three hours on foot through one leafy hillside quarter.

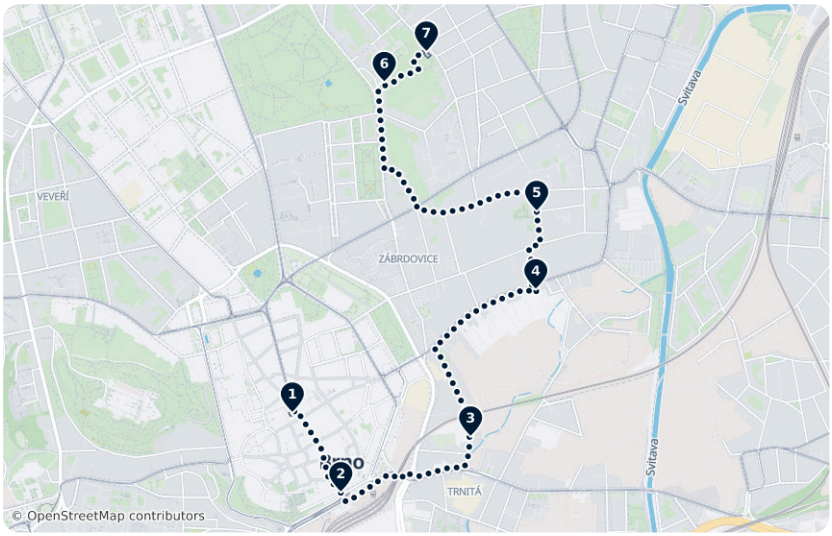

From Loom to Tugendhat

1h 16min · 3.9 km · 7 stops

1. The First Cloth Barons
2. The Offermanns
3. The Tugendhat and Kohn Factory
4. The Schoellers of Cejl
5. Union House
6. The Löw-Beer Villa
7. Villa Tugendhat

For two centuries Brno was the Moravian Manchester, a city that dressed an empire in fine wool. This walk follows the money: from Freedom Square, where the first cloth manufacturer lived, past the Offermann house and the old factory quarter along Křenová and Cejl, where weavers worked, trained and went on strike, then up to Černá Pole and two houses of one textile family, ending at Vila Tugendhat. Start on Freedom Square, a short walk from the main railway station or any central tram stop.

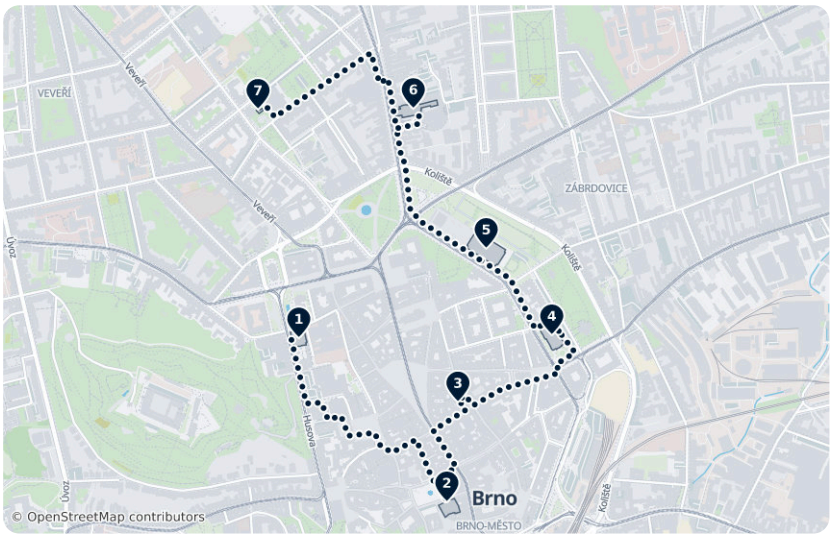

Brno on Stage

1h 7min · 3.2 km · 7 stops

1. Besední dům
2. Reduta Theatre
3. HaDivadlo Theatre
4. Mahen Theatre
5. Janáček Theatre
6. Brno City Theatre
7. Leoš Janáček Memorial

Brno's compact historic center hides a remarkable concentration of stages — from the oldest theatre building in Central Europe, where an eleven-year-old Mozart once performed, to the modern opera house built for native son Leoš Janáček. This walk links seven landmarks of music and theatre across a few central blocks: historic and contemporary playhouses, the home of the Brno Philharmonic and the site of its new concert hall under construction, and the garden pavilion where Janáček lived and taught. Seven stops, a little over an hour on foot. The walk starts at Besední dům on Komenského náměstí, a short walk from Brno's main railway station.

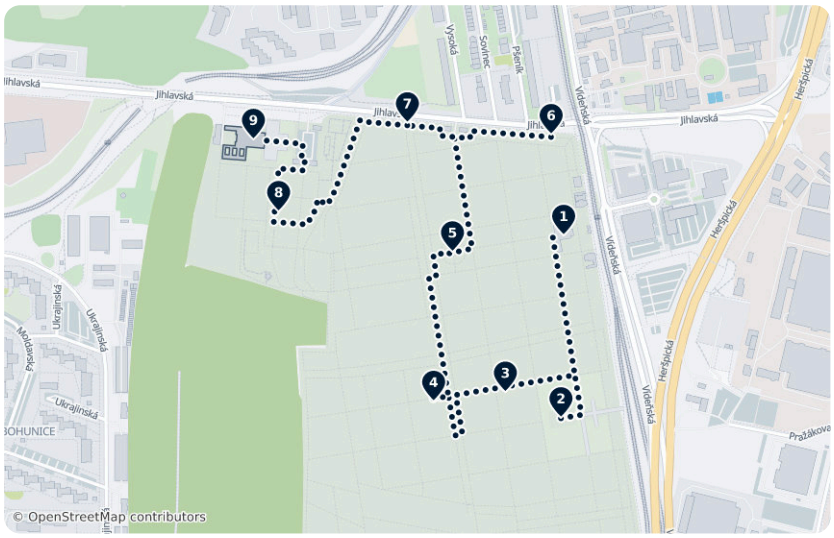

Brno Central Cemetery: Legends in Stone

1h 2min · 2.3 km · 9 stops

1. The Ceremonial Hall
2. WWII Resistance & Allied Troops Memorial
3. František Pavlík Memorial
4. Josef Barvič Grave
5. Circle of Honour
6. Gregor Mendel's Tomb
7. Dobrovský & Chytil Grave
8. Vítězslava Kaprálová's Grave
9. Brno Crematorium

Walk through Ústřední hřbitov, Brno's vast Central Cemetery, to meet the people who built the city's identity: Gregor Mendel, composer Leoš Janáček, architect Bohuslav Fuchs, Brno's first Czech mayor, the founder of its public library, a Moravian Karst explorer, one of Czechoslovakia's great postwar poets, the founder of Czech Slavic studies, and the man who opened Brno's first Czech bookshop, alongside memorials to civic and wartime sacrifice and Ernst Wiesner's Functionalist crematorium.

The Story of Brno

58min · 2.5 km · 7 stops

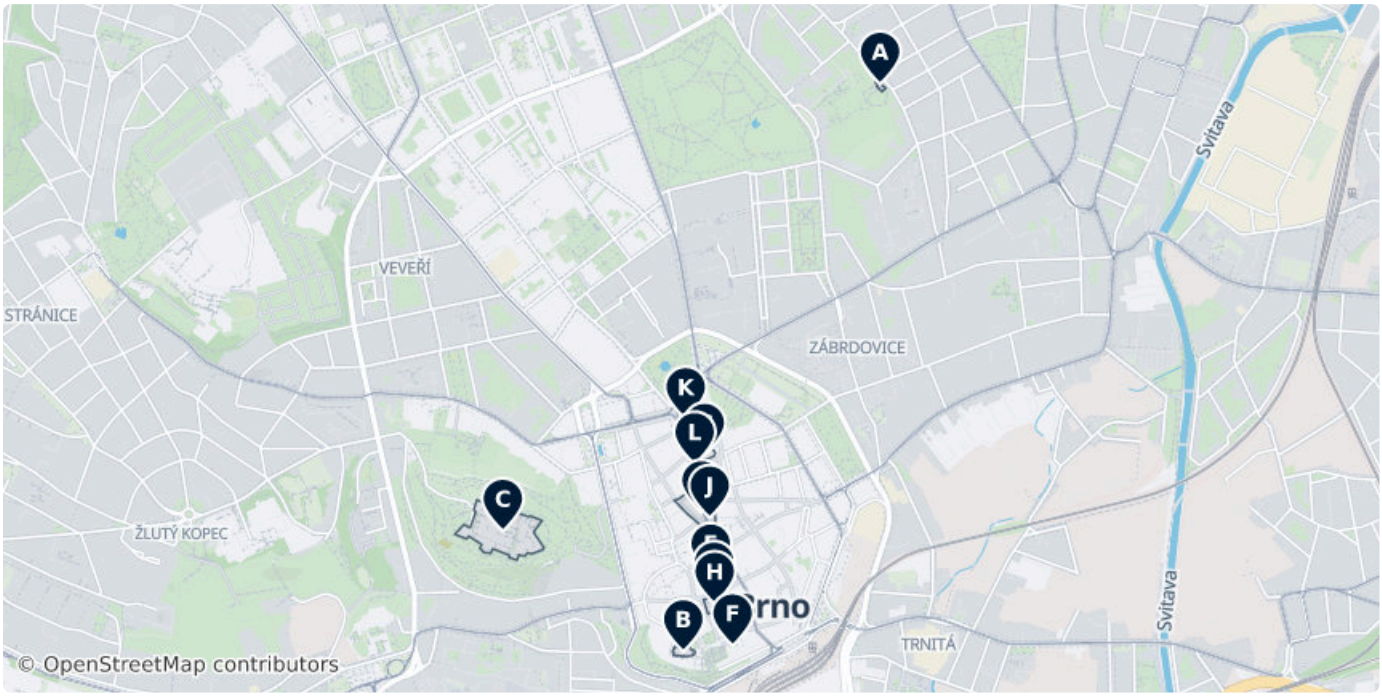

1. Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul
2. Old Town Hall
3. Měnínská Gate
4. Freedom Square & the Plague Column
5. Church of St. James & the Ossuary
6. Statue of Margrave Jošt
7. Špilberk Castle

A walk through eight centuries of Brno's history, from its medieval founding to the fortress that became one of the Habsburg Empire's most feared prisons. This walk visits the city's Gothic cathedral and Old Town Hall, the last surviving fragment of the medieval city walls, the civic square where a column still marks a devastating 17th-century plague and where both world wars left their mark, a statue of the medieval margrave who once ruled the city, a Gothic church built over a vast underground ossuary, and Špilberk Castle, whose walls hold the story of a legendary siege and two centuries as a political prison. Seven stops through Brno's historic core, roughly eighty minutes on foot.

Brno Essentials

Brno offers a blend of architectural styles, from the UNESCO-listed functionalism of Villa Tugendhat to the medieval Špilberk Castle. The city's history is preserved in its unique underground sites, including the Labyrinth beneath the Zelný Market and Europe's second-largest ossuary at St. James Church. Central squares like Freedom Square and Zelný trh showcase landmarks like the controversial black stone astronomical clock and the Old Town Hall with its legendary dragon. Religious history is highlighted by the mummified monks in the Capuchin Crypt and the twin spires of the Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul.
