TRAVEL GUIDE

Overview

Copenhagen is Denmark's capital and largest city, built on the islands of Zealand and Amager. It faces Sweden across the narrow Øresund strait. Bishop Absalon built a fortress on the harbor in 1167, and the settlement grew into Denmark's capital by the 15th century.

Around 650,000 people live in the city itself, with over 1.3 million in the greater metropolitan area. Copenhagen mixes royal palaces and canal-front houses with modern architecture. Cycling is part of daily life, and the compact center is easy to explore on foot or by bike. The city is also known as the birthplace of New Nordic cuisine, a movement that reshaped how the world cooks with local, seasonal ingredients.

When to visit

Copenhagen has warm summers and cold, dark winters. June through August bring the mildest weather and the longest days. The Copenhagen Jazz Festival fills the city with concerts every July. Winter days are short and often wet, but Tivoli Gardens runs a festive Christmas market from mid-November. Pack layers and a waterproof jacket in any season — rain can arrive without warning.

What to experience

- CopenHill is a waste-to-energy plant topped with a public ski slope, hiking trail, and climbing wall.
- Swim in the harbor at Havnebadet Islands Brygge, a free public bathing area on the Islands Brygge waterfront. Water quality is monitored and safe for swimming.
- Visit Freetown Christiania, a self-governing neighborhood founded by squatters in 1971. Photography is restricted in parts of the area — check posted signs.
- Take a canal boat tour from Nyhavn to see the city's waterfront landmarks from the water.

Day trips

- A Dragør is a small fishing town about 30 minutes south of Copenhagen by bus, known for its yellow half-timbered houses and thatched roofs.
- Klampenborg, a short train ride north, is home to Dyrehavsbakken, one of the world's oldest amusement parks, and the Dyrehaven deer park next to it.
- B Roskilde is about 30 minutes from Copenhagen by train. Its Roskilde Cathedral is a UNESCO World Heritage site and the burial place of Danish monarchs.
- Humlebæk, north along the coast, is home to Louisiana Museum of Modern Art, a modern art museum set in a sculpture garden overlooking the Øresund strait.
- C Helsingør is about 45 minutes north by train. Its Kronborg Castle is a UNESCO World Heritage site, famous as the setting for Shakespeare's Hamlet.
- D Malmö, Sweden's third-largest city, is about 40 minutes away by train across the Øresund Bridge.

Where to explore

Frederiksberg is an independent municipality that sits entirely inside Copenhagen's urban area. It has its own city hall and parks, including Frederiksberg Gardens next to Copenhagen Zoo, but is easy to reach on foot or by metro from the center.

Getting there

- By air: Copenhagen Airport (Kastrup) is Scandinavia's busiest airport, about 20 minutes from downtown by metro.
- By train: Copenhagen has direct rail links to Hamburg, Stockholm, and Malmö across the Øresund Bridge. DSB, Danish national rail
- By bus: Long-distance buses connect Copenhagen with other Scandinavian and European cities, usually at a lower cost than the train.

Getting around

- Metro and S-train: A driverless metro and an S-train network cover the city and suburbs. Pay directly with a contactless bank card or phone at metro stations and on trains — no separate transit card is needed. DOT journey planner
- Bike: An extensive network of separated bike lanes makes cycling a common way to get around. Rental bikes are widely available.
- Walking: The historic center is compact and mostly flat, making it easy to cover on foot.
- Taxi: Metered taxis are available throughout the city and at taxi stands.

Getting around on foot & by bike

WALKABILITY

High

The historic center is compact, flat, and easy to cover on foot in a few days.

CYCLING INFRASTRUCTURE

High

Cycling is a normal way to get around, with a large network of dedicated bike lanes across the city.

Driving

- A car isn't necessary in central Copenhagen — public transit, walking, and cycling cover the city well.
- Parking in the center is metered and limited; several streets are pedestrian-only.
- Copenhagen has a low-emission zone covering the city center. Older diesel vehicles may need a sticker or be restricted.

Food & drink

Danish food centers on smørrebrød, open-faced rye bread sandwiches topped with fish, meat, or cheese. Copenhagen is also the birthplace of New Nordic cuisine, a movement that emphasizes local, seasonal ingredients and reshaped how the world cooks with Scandinavian produce.

For a casual meal, Torvehallerne, a covered food market near Nørreport station, has dozens of stalls to choose from.

What to eat & drink

LUNCH

Smørrebrød

Open-faced rye bread sandwiches with toppings such as pickled herring, roast beef, shrimp, or liver pâté.

Smoked Herring · Røget sild

Cold-smoked herring, a Bornholm speciality, traditionally served on dark bread with raw onion and chives.

DINNER

Frikadeller

Pan-fried patties of ground pork and veal, seasoned with onion and nutmeg, served with potatoes and gravy.

Roast Pork with Crackling · Flæskesteg

Slow-roasted pork with crisp crackling, typically served with braised red cabbage and potatoes.

SNACKS & STREET FOOD

Rye Bread · Rugbrød

Dense, dark sourdough rye bread — the cornerstone of Danish everyday eating, used as the base for smørrebrød.

SWEETS & DESSERTS

Danish Pastry · Wienerbrød

Buttery, laminated pastry in many shapes — the local name literally means Vienna bread. Found in every bakery.

Cinnamon Roll · Kanelnegle

A buttery, swirled cinnamon bun popular at bakeries across the country.

DRINKS

Carlsberg / Tuborg · Øl

The two dominant Danish lager brands, both originating in Copenhagen and served on draught throughout the country.

Akvavit · Snaps

A caraway- or dill-flavoured spirit served ice-cold in a shot glass, traditionally accompanying festive meals.

Safety & health

- Copenhagen is a safe city with low rates of violent crime. Normal precautions against pickpocketing apply in busy tourist areas.
- Bike lanes are heavily used — always look before stepping into one, even when it looks empty.
- Tap water is safe to drink everywhere in Denmark.

History

Bishop Absalon built a fortress on Copenhagen's harbor in 1167, and the settlement grew around it. By the 15th century, Copenhagen had become the capital of Denmark. King Christian IV expanded the city dramatically in the 17th century, building Rosenborg Castle, Round Tower, and much of the historic core that survives today.

In 1807, the British Navy bombarded Copenhagen during the Napoleonic Wars, destroying much of the city center and seizing the Danish fleet.
