TRAVEL GUIDE

Overview

The French Riviera, also called the Côte d'Azur, is the Mediterranean coast of southeast France. This guide covers the stretch from Menton at the Italian border to Toulon and Hyères in the west. Nice is the main city and the main airport. Cannes, Antibes, Saint-Tropez and Menton are the other well-known towns. The tiny state of Monaco sits in the middle of the eastern coast.

The area mixes beaches, seafront promenades, hilltop villages and art museums. Matisse, Picasso, Chagall and Cocteau all lived or worked here. Winters are mild, and summers are hot and busy. A trip suits beach holidays, museum visits and easy day trips by train. Most visitors stay in Nice or another coastal town and use public transport to explore.

When to visit

May, June and September are the best months. The weather is warm and sunny, and the sea is pleasant from early summer. July and August are hot, crowded and the most expensive. Winters are mild but can be wet, and some beach businesses close.

The Cannes Film Festival in May is the biggest annual event. It fills hotels in Cannes and nearby towns, and prices rise sharply. Book early if you plan to visit then.

Top sights

The best sights are spread along the coast. Nice and Monaco have the most to see within walking distance. Trains link the main stops.

- The A Promenade des Anglais runs along the sea in Nice. It is the classic place for a walk or a bike ride, with a pebble beach below.
- The B Old Town of Nice has narrow lanes, markets and cafés. Climb C Castle Hill next to it for a park and wide views of the bay.
- D Musée Matisse and E Musée Marc Chagall are two of Nice's best art museums. Both are on the hill of Cimiez, north of the centre.
- F Villa Ephrussi de Rothschild is a pink villa with large gardens on the Cap Ferrat peninsula. Built in the early 1900s, it has sea views on both sides.
- The G Jardin exotique d'Èze is a cactus garden at the top of the medieval village of Eze. The view over the coast is the main reason to go.
- In Monaco, the H Prince's Palace of Monaco stands on the Rock above the harbour. The I Monte-Carlo Casino and Opera House is in Monte-Carlo. The J Oceanographic Museum of Monaco is built on a cliff over the sea and covers marine science.
- The K Musée Picasso is in a castle on the seafront in Antibes. Picasso worked in the building in 1946.
- The L Fondation Maeght near Saint-Paul-de-Vence is a modern art museum with a sculpture garden. It opened in 1964.
- M Fort Royal is a 17th-century fortress on Sainte-Marguerite island, a short boat ride from Cannes. A museum inside shows the cell of the prisoner known as the Man in the Iron Mask.
- N Plage de Pampelonne is a long sandy beach south of Saint-Tropez. It has many beach clubs and is very busy in summer.

What to experience

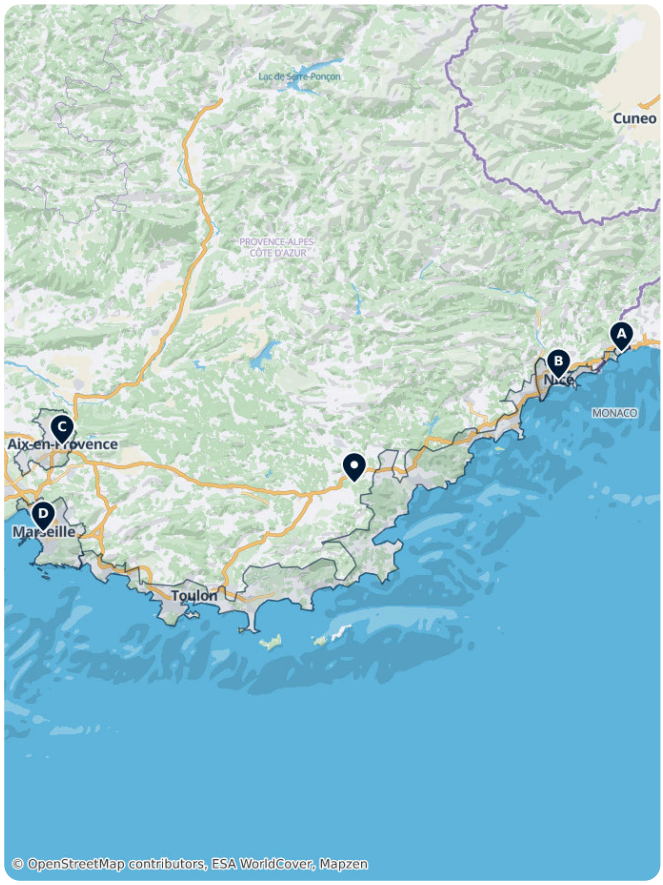

Some of the best moments here depend on the season.

- Nice Carnival and the Menton Lemon Festival take place from February into early March. They bring parades and decorated floats to the winter coast.
- In July, the Nice Jazz Festival and the Jazz à Juan festival in Juan-les-Pins (Antibes) fill the evenings with concerts.
- The Jasminade, a flower festival in Grasse, is held at the start of August.
- Take a boat from Cannes to the Lérins islands for a walk and a swim. Sea swimming is best from July to September.
- Walk a coastal path on the Cap d'Antibes or the Cap Ferrat peninsula. Both give sea views and rocky coves without a car.

Day trips

These places lie outside the coast covered here. Times are one way.

- Ventimiglia, Italy: about 15 minutes by train from A Menton. It is known for its large Friday street market.
- Vésubie valley and Mercantour National Park: about 1 hour 15 minutes by car from B Nice. It offers mountain villages and hiking.
- Gorges du Verdon: about 2 hours by car from Nice to Castellane, the gateway village. It is a deep canyon with viewpoints, and a car is needed.
- C Aix-en-Provence: about 2 hours by car from Nice. It is an elegant city with fountains and markets.
- D Marseille: about 2.5 hours by train from Nice. It is a big port city with an old harbour.

Where to explore

The towns below are listed from west to east.

- West: Toulon is a naval port with a cable car up to Mont Faron. Hyères is the departure point for the Porquerolles island, which is also covered by its own guide.
- Saint-Tropez and the Esterel coast: Saint-Tropez is the famous resort and fishing port. Its Citadelle de Saint-Tropez overlooks the harbour. Saint-Raphaël and Fréjus are neighbouring beach towns with Roman remains in Fréjus.
- Central coast: Cannes has its own guide and is the home of the film festival. Antibes has an old town and a large harbour. Grasse is the perfume town in the hills, with the International Perfume Museum. Saint-Paul-de-Vence is a walled hill village full of galleries.
- Nice area: Nice is the best base for most visitors. Eze and Saint-Jean-Cap-Ferrat are small and scenic. Monaco is an independent state that you can visit in a day.
- East: Menton is the last town before Italy. It has lemon gardens, the Basilique Saint-Michel-Archange and the Musée Jean Cocteau - Le Bastion.

Getting there

- By air: Nice Côte d'Azur airport (NCE) is the main gateway. It is 7 km west of central Nice. Tram line 2 reaches the city centre in under 30 minutes, and a single tram ticket costs 1.70 €. ZOU! buses 80, 81 and 82 run from the airport to Monaco and Menton, to Cannes, and to Antibes. Toulon-Hyères airport has a few flights and suits the west of the coast.
- By train: Direct TGV trains run from Paris to Nice in about 5 hours 40 minutes to 6 hours. Slower regional trains (TER) run along the whole coast about every 30 minutes. Nice to Cannes takes about 35 minutes, and Nice to Monaco about 20 minutes. SNCF Connect sells tickets.
- Saint-Tropez: The town has no train station. The nearest is Saint-Raphaël-Valescure. Use a bus or, in summer, a boat.

Getting around

- Trains: The coastal railway is the fastest way to move between Menton, Monaco, Nice, Antibes, Cannes and Saint-Raphaël. Buy tickets on SNCF Connect.
- Nice trams and buses: Nice has three tram lines and many bus routes. Buy a ticket before boarding the tram and validate it on every journey. See Lignes d'Azur.
- Regional buses: ZOU! buses reach hill villages and towns without a station, such as Saint-Paul-de-Vence and Grasse. Buy tickets before boarding when you can, because the driver adds a surcharge. See ZOU!.
- Boats: In summer, ferries link Saint-Tropez with Sainte-Maxime, Saint-Raphaël, Cannes and Nice. Boats from Cannes serve the Lérins islands.
- On foot: Each town is walkable. Distances between towns are too long, so use the train.

Getting around on foot & by bike

WALKABILITY

Moderate

Each town is walkable, but the sights are spread along more than 100 km of coast. Use trains and buses between towns.

CYCLING INFRASTRUCTURE

Moderate

Seafront paths and coastal roads suit cyclists. Hills and summer traffic make other areas harder.

Driving

- Is a car worth it? Not for the main coast. Trains and buses link the towns from Menton to Saint-Raphaël. A car helps for hill villages, the Esterel hills, the Saint-Tropez peninsula and the inland day trips.
- Roads: The A8 is a toll motorway along the coast. It is very busy in July and August. There is no motorway to Saint-Tropez, and traffic on the access roads is heavy in summer.
- Parking: Parking in the centres is limited and costly in summer. Use car parks on the edge of town and take public transport inside the big towns.

Food & drink

Local food mixes Provençal and Italian flavours. Look for socca (a thin chickpea pancake), pissaladière (onion tart), pan bagnat (a tuna and vegetable sandwich) and the Niçoise salad. Rosé from Provence is the usual wine with lunch, and many seafood dishes use olive oil and herbs.

Good eating clusters in the old town of Nice, especially around Cours Saleya, where the market and many restaurants meet. Every coastal town has a covered market and a harbour with fish restaurants. For a special meal, Mirazur in Menton holds three Michelin stars and needs a booking well ahead.

What to eat & drink

BREAKFAST

Croissant
Buttery, flaky laminated pastry and a classic French breakfast staple.

LUNCH

Ratatouille
A Provençal stewed vegetable dish of eggplant, zucchini, peppers, and tomatoes.

DINNER

Safety & health

The French Riviera is generally safe for visitors. Pickpocketing is the main risk, in crowded places such as the old town of Nice, on trains and on beaches. Keep bags closed and do not leave valuables on the sand.

Do not leave bags or devices visible in a parked car. Break-ins happen at beach and viewpoint car parks.

In dry summers, wildfires can affect the Esterel and Maures hills. On high-risk days, access to forest areas is closed, so check local notices before a hike. The summer sun is strong, so use sun protection.

History

Greek colonists founded a settlement at Nice around 350 BC, and Romans later built towns such as Fréjus. The Trophée des Alpes at La Turbie is a Roman monument from 6 BC. It celebrates the victory of Emperor Augustus over the Alpine tribes.

Nice belonged to the House of Savoy for centuries and joined France in 1860. From the late 1700s, British visitors came for the mild winters. The railway arrived in 1864, and the coast became a winter resort for European royalty. The Promenade des Anglais in Nice is named after these visitors. Monaco's casino opened in 1863 and made Monte-Carlo famous.

The writer Stéphen Liégeard coined the name Côte d'Azur in a book published in 1887. In the 20th century, artists such as Matisse and Picasso settled here. The Cannes Film Festival began in 1946. A 1956 film with Brigitte Bardot made Saint-Tropez world famous.
