Overview

Potsdam is the capital of Brandenburg. It lies on the Havel river and its lakes, just south-west of Berlin. Prussian kings built palaces and gardens here, and they are now UNESCO World Heritage.

It suits a day trip from Berlin or a quiet stay of two or three nights. Most visitors come for the parks and palaces, then add the baroque old town, the lakeside walks and the film and science heritage.

When to visit

Late spring and early autumn are the best times for the parks and gardens. Summer is warm and busy at the main palaces. Winter is cold and grey, but crowds are small.

Book Sanssouci Palace ahead in the warm months, because entry is by fixed time slot.

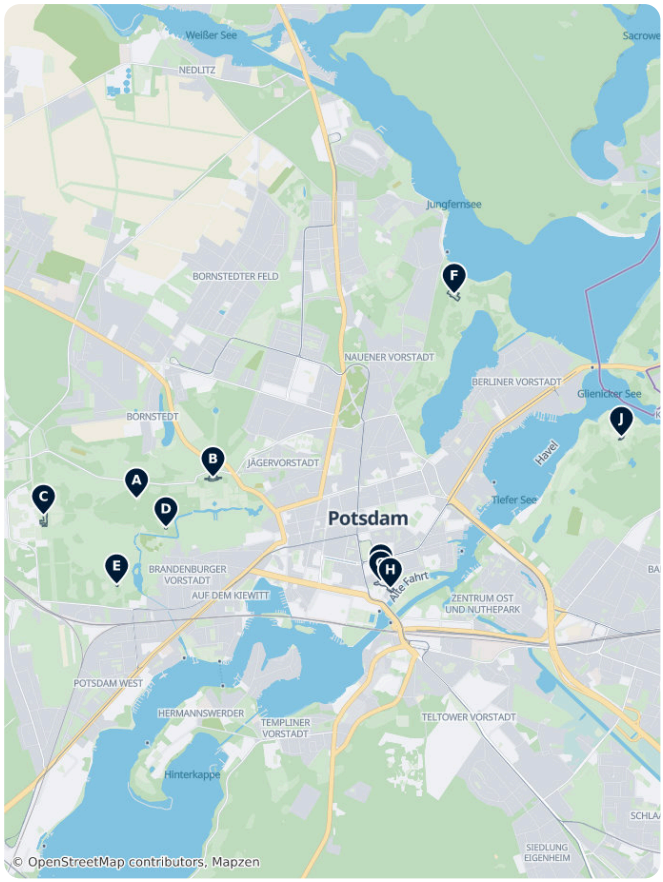
Top sights



- A Park Sanssouci is the main reason to come. It is a large park with palaces, fountains, terraces and long avenues.
- B Sanssouci Palace was Frederick the Great's summer residence, built in the 1740s.
- C New Palace is a large late baroque palace at the western end of the park. It was built by Frederick the Great after Sanssouci.
- D Chinese House is a small garden pavilion with gilded figures.
- E Schloss Charlottenhof is a neoclassical country house in the park, designed by Karl Friedrich Schinkel.
- F Schloss Cecilienhof in the Neuer Garten is where the Allied leaders met for the Potsdam Conference in 1945.
- G Alter Markt is the old town square. The art museum H Museum Barberini stands here, and the domed I St. Nikolaikirche rises above it.
- J Schloss Babelsberg is a neo-Gothic palace above the Havel, set in a landscaped park.

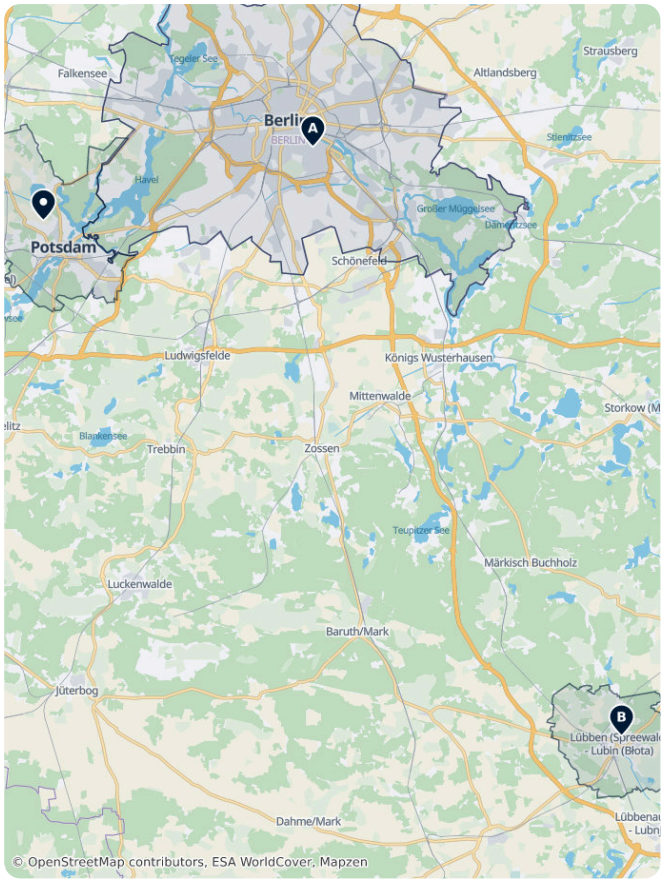
What to experience

- Take a boat trip on the Havel and its lakes from the city centre in summer.
- Rent a kayak or rowing boat on the Havel on a warm day.
- Cycle the park paths between the palaces and the lakeshore.
- Watch the sunset over the city from Belvedere auf dem Pfingstberg.
- Take a behind-the-scenes studio tour at Filmpark Babelsberg, in the town's film district.

Day trips

Potsdam works well as a base for easy trips along the Havel and into Berlin.

- Werder (Havel): about 15 to 30 minutes by regional train. A small island town known for orchards and lake views.
- Ⓐ Berlin: about 30 to 45 minutes by regional train or S-Bahn. Berlin has far more sights than one day allows, so pick one or two areas.
- Brandenburg an der Havel: about 30 to 40 minutes by regional train. A quiet old town with a cathedral, river and lakes.
- Ⓑ Lübben: about 1.5 to 2 hours by train. The gateway to the Spreewald, a network of canals where people travel by punt or kayak.



Where to explore

- For the capital: Berlin.
- For the Spreewald canals: Lübben.

Getting there

- By air: Berlin Brandenburg Airport (BER) is the nearest major airport. Take a train towards Potsdam Hauptbahnhof. Allow about 1 hour.
- By train: Potsdam Hauptbahnhof is the main station. Regional trains and the S-Bahn link it to Berlin in about 30 to 45 minutes. Book long-distance trains on Deutsche Bahn.
- By bus: Long-distance coaches are limited. Trains via Berlin are the easier choice.

Getting around

- Public transit: Trams, buses and ferries run across the city and the Havel. Potsdam is part of the Berlin-Brandenburg network, and the same tickets work in Berlin. Buy tickets in the transport app or at machines. Plan journeys on VBB.
- Distances: The palaces in the park are 2 to 3 km apart. A tram or bus helps reach the edges of Sanssouci Park and the Neuer Garten.
- On foot and by bike: The old town is compact. The terrain is flat, and park paths suit cycling.

Food & drink

Brandenburg food is simple and regional. Look for dishes with potatoes, freshwater fish from local lakes, and fruit from the orchards around Werder.

For eating out, go to Brandenburger Strasse, the pedestrian street in the centre, and the lanes of the Dutch Quarter. Both have clusters of cafés and restaurants. The area around Alter Markt is also a good choice.

What to eat & drink

LUNCH

Doner Kebab · Döner Kebab
A sandwich of roasted meat, salad, and sauce in flatbread, invented by Turkish immigrants in Berlin and now a national staple.

DINNER

Schnitzel
A thin, breaded and fried cutlet, usually pork, served with potatoes or fries and a lemon wedge.

Sauerbraten
A pot roast marinated for days in vinegar and spices before slow cooking, served with red cabbage and dumplings.

SNACKS & STREET FOOD

Bratwurst
A grilled or fried pork sausage, often served in a bread roll with mustard, sold at stands nationwide.

Currywurst
Sliced sausage topped with curry-spiced ketchup, a Berlin invention now popular across the country.

Pretzel · Brezel
A large, chewy salted bread pretzel, especially common in Bavaria, often eaten with butter or cheese.

SWEETS & DESSERTS

Black Forest Cake · Schwarzwälder Kirschtorte
A layered chocolate sponge cake with cherries, cherry liqueur, and whipped cream.

DRINKS

Beer · Bier
Germany brews hundreds of regional styles, from Bavarian Weissbier to Cologne's Kölsch, each tied to its home city.

Gluhwein · Glühwein
Mulled, spiced red wine served hot, a staple of winter and Christmas markets.

Apfelschorle
Apple juice mixed with sparkling water, the everyday non-alcoholic drink of choice.

Safety & health

Potsdam is a safe city for visitors.

- Pickpockets work in busy places such as palace queues, the main station and the trains to Berlin. Keep bags closed.

History

Potsdam became a royal residence under the Prussian kings. Frederick the Great built Sanssouci Palace as his private retreat, and later kings added the other palaces and gardens.

The city also grew with settlers. The Russische Kolonie Alexandrowka is a Russian-style village of wooden houses from the early 19th century. The town gates, such as Brandenburger Tor and Nauener Tor, mark the old city edge.

In 1945 the leaders of the USA, the Soviet Union and the United Kingdom met at Schloss Cecilienhof. They agreed on the post-war order for Germany. During the Cold War the city lay on the border with West Berlin. Glienicker Brücke linked the two sides and was used for exchanges of prisoners.

Potsdam's Royal Palaces and Historic Parks: A Lifetime Visit

Potsdam preserves the architectural grandeur of the Prussian monarchy and significant 20th-century landmarks. This selection includes the UNESCO-listed New Garden and Babelsberg Park, the English Tudor-style Cecilienhof Palace—site of the 1945 Potsdam Conference—and the neoclassical St. Nicholas Church. The list also features the Glienicke Bridge, used for Cold War spy exchanges, and the Museum Barberini, which houses extensive Impressionist and DDR-era art collections within the city's reconstructed historical center.
