Overview

Stuttgart is the capital of Baden-Württemberg. The city lies in a green basin, with hills, forests and vineyards around the centre. It is the home of Mercedes-Benz and Porsche, and it suits a trip of two or three days.

The city combines car museums, art, palaces and parks. Wine grows on slopes close to the main station. The philosopher Hegel was born here. Visitors who like cars, architecture or wine will find the most to do. The Christmas market and the autumn Volksfest are the big seasonal draws.

When to visit

Late spring and early autumn are the most pleasant seasons. Summer is warm, with some rain. Winter is cold and grey, but the Christmas market makes it worth a visit.

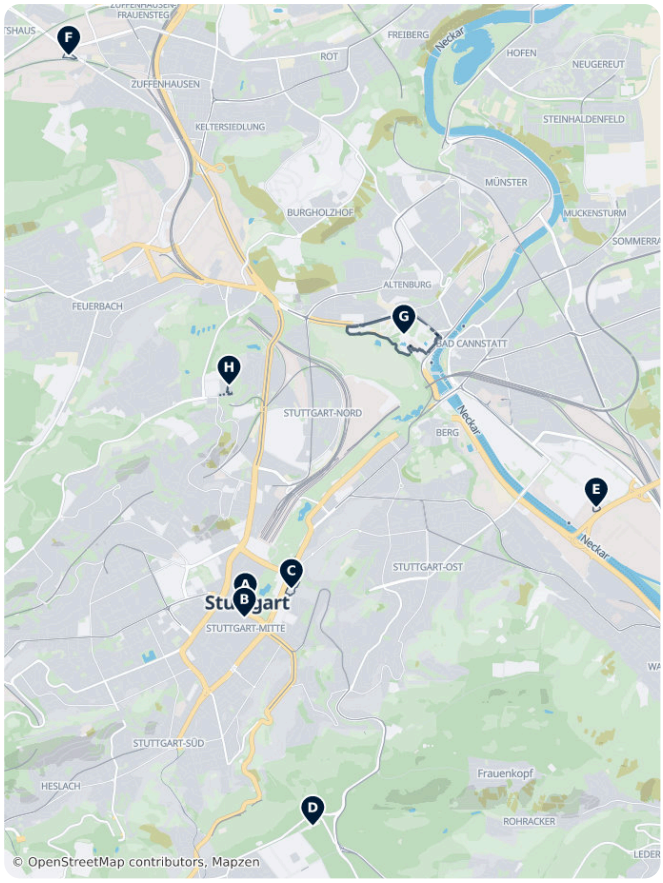

The biggest event is the Cannstatter Volksfest. It is a beer and funfair festival on the Cannstatter Wasen meadow. It runs for about three weeks from late September into early October. Book hotels early for this period.

Top sights

- A Schlossplatz is the central square. Palaces, museums and a large park meet here, so it is the best place to start.
- B Landesmuseum Württemberg fills the Old Castle next to the square. It shows the history of Württemberg, from ice age finds to the royal crown.
- C Staatsgalerie is the main art museum. The new wing by James Stirling opened in 1984. It holds Old Masters and modern art, including works by Picasso and Mondrian.
- D Fernsehturm was opened in 1956. It was the first telecommunications tower in the world built from reinforced concrete. The view platform shows the city basin and the hills.
- E Mercedes-Benz Museum tells the story of the Mercedes-Benz brand with more than 160 vehicles. The building opened in 2006. Audio tours are free.
- F Porsche Museum is in the north of the city, next to the Porsche headquarters. It opened in 2009 and shows a rotating selection of cars.
- G Wilhelma is a zoo and a botanical garden in one park. Its Moorish-style buildings date from the 19th century.
- H Weißenhofsiedlung was built for a housing exhibition in 1927. Mies van der Rohe led the project. Two houses by Le Corbusier are on the UNESCO World Heritage list.

What to experience

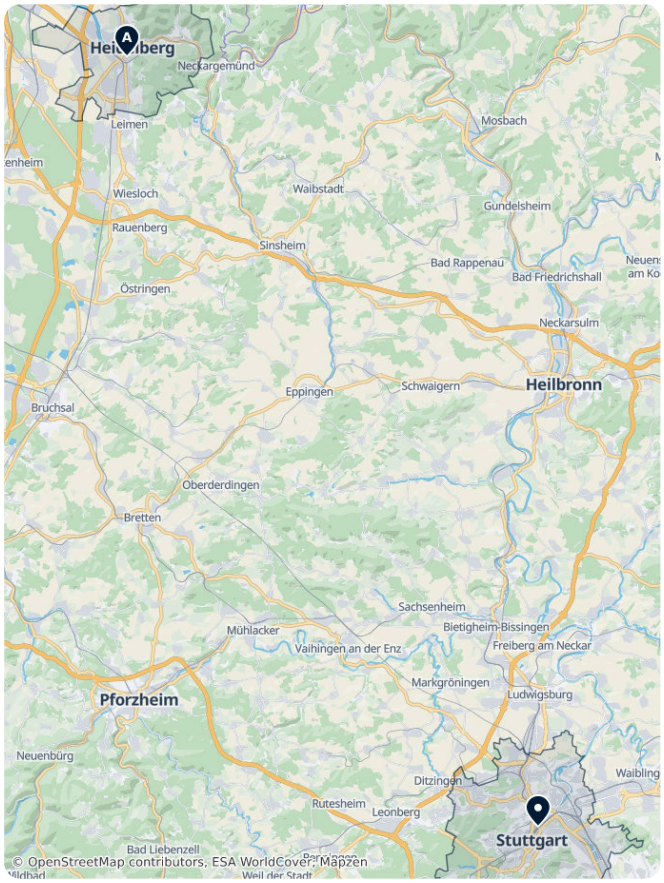

Stuttgart has seasonal events and local rituals that suit a short visit.

- Christmas market: It runs from late November until 23 December. It has more than 200 stands and is one of the oldest and largest in Europe. Try hot mulled wine and look at the handmade gifts.
- Cannstatter Volksfest: A funfair and beer festival on the Cannstatter Wasen in autumn. A smaller spring edition takes place on the same ground.
- Stuttgarter Weindorf: A wine festival in late August or early September. Local winegrowers sell wine on the squares around Schillerplatz Stuttgart and the market square.
- Ride the Zacke: Take the Zacke from Marienplatz up to Degerloch for the ride itself. It is a rack railway that is part of the city transit system.
- Mineral bath: Stuttgart has many mineral springs. Swim in a mineral bath such as Mineralbad Berg or Mineralbad Leuze.
- Sunset on the Birkenkopf: Rubble from the war was piled on this 511 m hill. The view over the city is best at dusk.
- Walk the vineyards: Vines cover the slopes above the city. Some vineyards are less than 500 m from the main station.

Day trips

These trips are easy by train. They are listed from closest to farthest.

- Esslingen am Neckar: about 15 min by S-Bahn. A medieval old town with half-timbered houses and parts of the old city wall.
- Ludwigsburg: about 20 min by S-Bahn. A large Baroque palace with gardens.
- Tübingen: about 1 hour by regional train. A university town with narrow lanes and flat boats on the river.
- Ⓐ Heidelberg: about 40 min by direct ICE. A castle ruin above the old town.

Where to explore

Larger destinations in the region are reachable by train for a longer trip.

- For a city break: Karlsruhe and Freiburg im Breisgau.
- For spa and forest: Baden-Baden and the Black Forest.
- For lakes: Lake Constance and Konstanz.

Getting there

- By air: Stuttgart Airport (STR) is about 13 km south of the centre. The S-Bahn (S2 or S3) reaches the main station in about 30 min. Many travelers also fly to Frankfurt and continue by train.
- By train: Stuttgart Hauptbahnhof has direct ICE trains to Frankfurt (about 1 h 20 min), Munich (about 2 h 15 min) and Heidelberg (about 40 min). Direct trains also run to Strasbourg, Zurich, Vienna and Paris. Book at Deutsche Bahn.
- By bus: Long-distance coaches serve the city and are cheaper than trains. The coach station is at the airport, so use the S-Bahn to reach the centre.

Airport information: Stuttgart Airport

Getting around

- Public transit: The Stadtbahn (U-Bahn), S-Bahn and buses share one fare system. A 1-zone ticket covers travel inside Stuttgart.
- Tickets: Buy a mobile ticket in the VVS app. It is cheaper than a machine ticket. You can also use station machines, which have an English option, or buy from the bus driver. Day tickets are available.
- Rack railway: Line 10, the Zacke, runs from Marienplatz up to Degerloch. Normal VVS tickets are valid.
- On foot or by bike: The centre is compact and good on foot. The hills around it are steep, so e-bikes work better than normal bikes.

Journey planner: VVS Stuttgart

Getting around on foot & by bike

WALKABILITY

Moderate

The centre is compact and walkable. The surrounding hills are steep.

CYCLING INFRASTRUCTURE

Low

Steep hills make normal cycling hard. E-bikes work well.

Driving

- Is a car worth it?: Not for a city stay. The Stadtbahn and S-Bahn reach every sight. A car helps only for trips into the countryside.
- Parking: Use a car park in the centre or a park-and-ride lot at an S-Bahn stop. Continue into the centre by train.
- Restrictions: The city is a low-emission zone. Cars need a green sticker. Older diesel cars may be banned, so check before you drive.

Food & drink

Look for Swabian dishes. Maultaschen are filled pasta squares, often served in broth. Spätzle are soft egg noodles, eaten with lentils and sausage or with roast beef and onions. Local wine comes from Württemberg. Red Trollinger and white Riesling are common.

- The food stalls and snack counters inside Markthalle.
- The restaurants and bars of Bohnenviertel Stuttgart.
- The wine stands at the Weindorf in late summer.

What to eat & drink

LUNCH

Doner Kebab · Döner Kebab
A sandwich of roasted meat, salad, and sauce in flatbread, invented by Turkish immigrants in Berlin and now a national staple.

DINNER

Schnitzel
A thin, breaded and fried cutlet, usually pork, served with potatoes or fries and a lemon wedge.

Sauerbraten
A pot roast marinated for days in vinegar and spices before slow cooking, served with red cabbage and dumplings.

SNACKS & STREET FOOD

Bratwurst
A grilled or fried pork sausage, often served in a bread roll with mustard, sold at stands nationwide.

Currywurst
Sliced sausage topped with curry-spiced ketchup, a Berlin invention now popular across the country.

Pretzel · Brezel
A large, chewy salted bread pretzel, especially common in Bavaria, often eaten with butter or cheese.

SWEETS & DESSERTS

Black Forest Cake · Schwarzwälder Kirschtorte
A layered chocolate sponge cake with cherries, cherry liqueur, and whipped cream.

DRINKS

Beer · Bier
Germany brews hundreds of regional styles, from Bavarian Weissbier to Cologne's Kölsch, each tied to its home city.

Gluhwein · Glühwein
Mulled, spiced red wine served hot, a staple of winter and Christmas markets.

Apfelschorle
Apple juice mixed with sparkling water, the everyday non-alcoholic drink of choice.

Safety & health

Stuttgart is safe for visitors. Violent crime against tourists is rare.

- Pickpockets work in crowds around the main station and on the main shopping street. Keep bags closed.
- Crowds at the Volksfest and the Christmas market also attract thieves.
- The Leonhardsviertel is lively at night. Stay aware late in the evening.
- Call 112 for ambulance and fire, and 110 for police.

History

The name Stuttgart comes from Stuotgarten, an old word for stud farm. Duke Liudolf of Swabia founded a stud farm here in 950 to breed warhorses.

The Württemberg rulers later made the city their capital. Neues Schloss is their Baroque residence. Building began in 1746. Today it houses state ministries. The Old Castle next to it is now a museum. In the 1760s Duke Charles Eugene built the Rococo Schloss Solitude as a hunting retreat on a hill west of the centre.

In the 19th and 20th centuries Stuttgart became an industrial city. Gottlieb Daimler built early engines and cars in Bad Cannstatt. Mercedes-Benz and Porsche are still headquartered here.

Air raids in the Second World War destroyed most of the old centre. The heaviest raid came on 12 September 1944. Many buildings were rebuilt after the war, including the palace, which was rebuilt in the 1950s and 1960s. Rubble from the ruins was piled on the Birkenkopf hill.

Stuttgart Essentials

Stuttgart blends industrial prowess with historic elegance. This selection highlights the city's automotive legacy at the high-tech Porsche and Mercedes-Benz museums. Architectural landmarks range from the futuristic, minimalist Municipal Library and the 216-meter TV Tower to the Rococo Solitude Palace and the Baroque New Palace on Schlossplatz. Visitors can explore the 19th-century New State Gallery, the medieval Old Castle, or the diverse flora and fauna at Wilhelma zoological-botanical garden. The list is rounded out by the culinary variety of the Markthalle and the scenic Sepulchral Chapel overlooking the Württemberg vineyards.
